

The Proctors draw the attention of members of the University to the following:

1. Conduct and Discipline

All matriculated members of the University have promised to observe the Statutes and Ordinances and to pay due respect and obedience to the Chancellor and other officers of the University. General regulations for discipline apply to all members of the University, and particular Rules of Behaviour apply to Registered Students and Formerly Registered Students.

Complaints, investigations and disciplinary matters are handled by the Office of Student Conduct, Complaints and Appeals (in the case of Registered Students and Formerly Registered Students) and the University Advocate (in the case of other members of the University). Sanctions and precautionary measures can be imposed, including in cooperation with the colleges.
